

An excerpt from North Carolina Senator Charlie Albertson's remarks at the college's Biofuels Field Day

September 27, 2007

Williamsdale Farm and Agricultural Extension and Research Facility

“Thank you, Winston. Of course I’d like to take this opportunity to welcome all of you here to Duplin County, my home county in the state. We’re very excited about the Williamsdale Farm and all of the possibilities and opportunities that it offers for our people. This is a project that many of us have been working hard on and looking forward to. Again, we think it offers great opportunities, not only for our farm people, but I believe we can produce some energy in this state to make us less reliant on outside sources of energy. And of course if we can do that, we’ll all be great winners.”