

BE AN AGENT OF CHANGE

NC STATE

Careers with NC State Extension

EXTENSION

What separates NC State University from other schools? The same thing that connects it to every corner of North Carolina: NC State Extension. At NC State we conduct groundbreaking research and our Extension agents deliver those solutions directly into the hands of North Carolinians. Our mission: To create prosperity for all North Carolinians through research-based agricultural, food and 4-H youth development programs.

Extension agents make sure vital research discoveries are transferred from the campus to the community. With offices in all 100 counties and the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Indians there is always an opportunity to join and make a difference close to your home.

This is a job where you can make a difference. Extension agents monitor and respond to community needs with educational programs and resources. You will need to be confident, professional, flexible, proactive and persistent.

How Does Extension Help?

Agriculture

NC State Extension connects growers with research-based information and technology. We help keep North Carolina's $87 billion agriculture industry growing and sustainable.

Food and Nutrition

Extension educational programs range from local foods and home gardening to food safety and food preservation. We help people make healthier decisions and live better lives.

4-H Youth Development

Extension's 4-H program is the largest youth development organization in North Carolina. We help over 225,000 young people grow into active, contributing citizens each year.

Join Us Today

ces.ncsu.edu/jobs

NC State University promotes equal opportunity and prohibits discrimination and harassment based upon one's age, color, disability, family and marital status, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, political beliefs, race religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation and veteran status.